The Daily Standard. Friday, Jane 23, 1871.

People Feel Well. There is less croaking in this city now than there has been for years. No one JUST ARRIVED PROM CHINA, is making a rapid fortune. But the peo-ple feel well. Of this there can be no doubt wintever. The merchants and traders are hopeful. The mechanics are principle waiting for another tide of eculators have visions of large fortune ditting before their imaginations. Capi-latists expect a large demand for money with good security and high interest. Hotel-keepers are looking for crowds of new-comers, and steamboat and stage lines for a rush of passengers. Officecekers stand ready to turn their backs on the setting and worship the rising san. Politicians are delighted at the promising opportunities to become the saviors of oir country. Marriageable people foresee opportunities to make happy homes. Even the everlasting croakers feel better over the brightening pros-pects of the colony. Taxpayers patiently wait for the coming changes to lighten their burdens. Everything in the city has an upward—a buoyant tendency. We repeat again, the people feel well. In the rural districts the farmers are generally contented with the results of their industry. They are growing rich. But like the rest of the people, they feel well and are waiting for "the good time a coming." Miners everywhere, from Kootensy to Cariboo, seem contented, fied with Germansen than the diamondseekers with the African Golconda Everywhere the people feel well. Outside, however, of the ordinary industries of the colony, there is a class that has been silenced by the coming political changes,—by the prospects of a surplus local revenue,—by local public works—and particularly by the certainty of the carly construction of the Victoria and Montreel Reilway. This restaurant Montreal Railway. This vast undertaking, everybody can see, must spend country. There will, at the very least, be six handred miles of railway to be constructed in the colony at a cost probably, for railway, rolling stock, and stations, of $40,000 per mile. There are "ninety-nine chances in a hundred" that the terminus will be at Victoria, and that the line will pass via Johnson straits into the Mair-land and thence to Montreal. The railwas will move forward from the termini a the Pacific side simultaneously with its advancement on the Canada side. Hence it is easy to imagine the wonderful changes that will soon be wrought in this country, in this place, and along the whole line traversed by the railway. Forty thousand dollars a mile spent in in laying rails, erecting stations. building bridges, constructing machine shops, and a hundred miles a year ate or this amount be spent in importing rails, etc., yet the balance, $3,-000,000, ought to be equivalent to an lition to the trade of the country of at east $12,000,000. Here there is employment for thousands; and fortunes for thousands more. British Columbia will be ransacked through and through in a wery short time, and the railway, when commenced, will literally turn the country apside down. Population will be increased, trade and industry will flourish, and appeared the restaurant of the restaurant of the railway. and speculation will be rife in every direction. There is no doubt about the coming excitement,—the coming prosperity; and hence no wonder that the Senatorships.

Very few people seem to care who will be Governor, -unless he should be grown at home. In that case criticism would doubtless be heard. We have been so much acustomed to be governed by a class of men regarded as semiforeigners, that people generally have about as much sympathy for a Governor as a Hettentot has for a snow-bank. The governorship will, however, b cooked up in some shape, and if we don't like the incumbent we can get rid of him. But what shall we say of Senaof Confederation; yet who knows who will be Senators? We must have three? Who are they to be? Whoever they may be, to all appearance the people of British Columbia will have no say in British Columbia will have no say in their appointment. No one with a grain of common sense would ever credit the Crowther's Paint Shop, Yatts street, of common sense would ever credit the present Executive with representing public opinion in their appointment; nor even with dispensing Senatorships to those who are justly entitled to them. In the Eastern Provinces, Senatorships were given in such a way as to make them quasi-representatives. But the reason of that was due to the fact that based on representation. Here there is no such Executive. Hence, we may naturally expect the Senatorships of this Colony to be given to those least entitled to them. But let us have the that job off the public e, and get that job off the public

THE DURE OF CAMBRIDGE ON ARMY REPORM A paper on "The Military Systems of France and Prussia" was read in the theatre of the Royal United Service Institution, Whitehall, on the 12th ult., by Colonel Brackenbury.
The Duke of Cambridge, who presided, said by did not intend to express an opinion as to the relative merits of the two systems which had been placed before them; but he would make one r mark as to a matter which had been introduced incidentally. Reference has been made to what ought has been done in Eugland. He felt bound to say that howforeign lands, however excellent had been the rapid organization of the German army, the whole principle upon which it was founded, the grounds upon which it was based, were diametrically opposed to the state of things existing in England. The army there was placed upon a thoroughly different footing to that of England. The ing instant death. Of Public Works, $1,600; and the Private Secretary of the Lieut.-Governor, $1,000. The sum of $12,000 is placed for the repairs and construction of roads and bridges; and $8.000 are voted to bridge the Assimboine; the maintenance of the police coats $13,800, and $6,000 go to the support of common schools; and printing and poor relief are placed at $2,000 each. The total amount of expenditure, counting in various miscellar. expenditure, counting in various miscellan-eous items, is $79,585. Against this the finances of the new Province place a set-off in the shape of assets. The interest $472,000 at five per cent gives $33,604; allowadce for at two per cent gives $33,604; allowadce for Government support, $30,000; subsidy from Dominion Government, at 80 cents per head on 17,000 persons, $13,600; and licenses for spirituous liquors, $13,015, making in all $80,220. The surplus is not very large, but the Manitobase congratulate themselves that on their first experiment in legislation they have managed to make both ends meet.

At the evening meeting of the Royal Geographical Society receasily. Sir Behry Rawlinson is the chair, despatches were read from Dr. Kirk, of Zanzibar, relative to Dr. Livingstone. The most important of these documents was a letter dated November 6th, 1870, from Sherif Basheikh bia Ahmed, the Arab sent in charge of men and stores for Dr Arab sent in charge of men and stores for Dr.
Livingstone, and who arrived at Ujiji, on the shores of Lake Tanganyika. This letter stated that on the 10th of November the writer had been visited by a messenger from the people of Menama (or Manyema), with letters from Arabs staying there, and one from "the Doctor," the letters being d ted October 15. In answer to the writer's inquiries the messengers had told him that the locator the messengers had told him that the Doctor was well, although he had been suffering, and that he was at the town of Manakoso, with Mohammed bin Gharib, waiting for the caravans, being himself without means, and with few followers, only eight men, so that he could not move elsewhere or come down (to Uj ji.) Sherif further stated that he had sent off to the Doctor twelve of his men, with a quantity of goods, shoes, quintue, ammunition, and so forth; all stores in fact, of which be was in need, and that he intended himself remaining at Ujiji to await the Doctor's orders. Another letter, written by Said bin Majid from Ujiji to a trader at Zanzibar, gave a very favorable account of the state of the country, and said that letters had come from the Arab traders at Menama, stating that "the Chris ain" was in their Company, and that the Menama caravan intended returning to Ujiji in April, 1871. He also confirmed Sherif's statement that ingstone. The chairman commented at some ength on these interesting letters, reducing ONE NEW BUGGY, the Mahomedan dates to those of our calende the Mahomedan dates to those of our calender and showing how Livingstone had been carrying out his pre-arranged plans of exploration. For example, he had written in May. 1869, stating his intention of visiting the country of Manyema, which he described as on the borders of a lake west of Tanganyika, and expressing his doubts whether that more westerly line of drainage, with its rivers and lakes might not be the head waters of the Congo. Nothing regarding the Doctor 153 of the Congo. Nothing regarding the Doct-390 or's discoveries or future pians had been 348 communicated in these letters. It was therefore almost useless to speculate concerning 19,891 them. The chairman, however, was inclined 12,698 to believe from his knowledge of Living 20,323 stone's character that if he had not already satisfied himself regarding the union of Lake Tanganyika with Baker's Lake to the north 2,839 and the Nile-system, he would, now that he 3,765 was replenished with men and stores, make 1,661 an attempt to solve that problem before turn-604 ing his face homewards. Colonel Grant gave 288 some account of his own experiences of the country when travelling with Captain Speke, and maintained that nothing had yet been discovened to disprove the title of Victoria Nyanza to the position of the most elevated, and therefore the principal, head of the Nile waters. The Rev. Horace Waller, who had travelled with Livigstone during the Zambesi expedition, said that the Doctor would be most probably, now that he was refitted be Visit to Archbishop Darboy.
